Queen Elizabeth berths at Ashdod

ITZHAK OKED
Jerusalem Post Reporter
— Blacked out on the British Cunard luxury liner Elizabeth 2 docked here yesterday morning, its foghorn loud hoarse signal, end-of-the-world voyage publicized fears of an attack.
65,000-ton, 300-metre-long ship, greeted by sirens, jets and cannon and a youth regatta about half its size, most of them Jewish, out on sightseeing trips, are here for the end-of-the-world holiday and Israel's war celebrations.
The ship was transferred to Shimon Peres, who said that the press had all created the news about measures. It was later learned that Mrs. Peres' wife Sonia had been among the guests, which sailed from southern ampten last Sunday, was nursed into her berth by three tugs at Ashdod port's new Pier No. 5. It is only 200 metres long and 100 metres of the ship sticks out. The liner reached the vicinity of Ashdod at 8 a.m., an hour ahead of schedule, and remained 10 miles from the port so that it could dock as scheduled at 7:30 a.m.

The tourists aboard the ship, which will stay here 17 days, will go home by air, while an equal number of travellers who flew to Israel will make the return journey by sea. The QE2 will sail tomorrow night to Haifa where she will stay until May 4. On May 7, Independence Day, she will make the return journey to England.
At 6:30 a.m. yesterday a small launch carrying Harbour Master Captain Mike Rand and two of his pilots, a number of policemen and Customs officials left Ashdod and boarded the ship at sea. The Harbour Master and his pilots took

Nixon assures support on Soviet Jews

LOD AIRPORT. — President Nixon has assured U.S. Jewish leaders that he would continue to exert his full influence on behalf of the right of Soviet Jews to emigrate. This was reported here yesterday by Yehuda Helman, executive director of the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations.
In his meeting last Thursday with 15 leaders of the Conference, Mr. Nixon assured them the Soviet Union had suspended and would not reimpose the education tax on Soviet Jews emigrating to Israel. Mr. Helman said the Jewish leaders welcomed the news, but asked the President for his immediate help in obtaining the release of the more than 100,000 Russian Jews whose applications for exit visas had been denied and who were now living in want.
Mr. Helman said that Mr. Nixon displayed "extraordinary familiarity" with the subject.
"I have never heard a head of state express himself with such warmth in favour of the Jewish cause," he said.
Mr. Helman will today brief Jewish Agency chairman Arye Pnouis and other leaders of the International Committee on Soviet Jewry on the meeting with President Nixon. Last night he gave a preliminary report to Jewish Agency Secretary General Moshe Rivlin.
Hundreds of persons attended an emergency rally on Thursday evening, called by former residents of Minsk to protest against a major show trial being prepared by the Soviet authorities against Jewish former Red Army officers, because they "wanted to go to Israel."
According to a telephone conversation with one of the officers, Colonel Yassim Davidovitch, scores of Minsk Jews have been interrogated by the KGB to set the stage for the big anti-Jewish trial. (Itim)

16 Iraqi Jews kidnapped

— Eight more Jews, a 12-year-old girl — last week in Iraq, bringing a number of missing to 24. This is the first time since the public Council for David Petel.

Although the Iraqi authorities have claimed that the missing Jews "died to Iran," Mr. Petel said, there was evidence that they were kidnapped by the Iraqi security services. "Some of the abductions were carried out in broad daylight in front of eyewitnesses," he said.
Mr. Petel said the 450 Jews remaining in Iraq were under constant surveillance and were forbidden to go far from their homes. (Itim)

Three killed on roads

JERUSALEM POST STAFF
ELLAT. — Three persons died and 10 more were injured in two accidents on the Arava road north of Eilat on Friday.
A car driven by Gideon Friedman of Haifa crashed head-on with another vehicle near Kibbutz Eilat, killing Friedman's wife, Shoshanna, 51, and a passenger in the other car, Eli Fring, 15, of Kfar Saba. Friedman, 62, was seriously injured. Eight more passengers in the two cars were hurt.
Pina Shaine, 22, of Safad, was killed when a pick-up truck in which she was travelling overturned near Nahal Katura. Another passenger, Hanna Moscovitz, 13, was seriously hurt. The driver, Ya'acov Rahamim, 26, of Kfar Tabor was held for questioning.
All the injured were being treated in the Josephine Hospital in Eilat. No one was hurt in five other accidents which took place during the holiday weekend.

The Jerusalem Post will not be published tomorrow, the last day of the Passover holiday. The next issue will appear on Tuesday, April 24.

Passover holiday ends

The end of the Passover holiday is marked tonight and tomorrow. "Shirat Hayam" (Song of the Sea) celebrations in Tel Aviv will be held at 9:30 this evening at Herbert Samuel Square, where Allenby Road leads to the boardwalk, and at 10 o'clock on the banks of the Yarkon River, at the foot of Ibn Gvirol.
Over the long holiday weekend more than 100,000 visitors crowded into Eilat (pop. 17,000), slowing traffic to a crawl. At one point, cars lined the Arava road a solid 60 km. north of the town.

Bangladesh army distributes food

DACCA (Reuters). — Prime Minister Sheikh Mujibur Rahman has ordered the army to take over the distribution of food throughout Bangladesh in the wake of the tornado four days ago which killed hundreds of people and left many more homeless.
Officials now say there are around 500 confirmed deaths but some press reports have put the death toll as high as twice this figure.

EBAN CALLS IN FRENCH ENVOY

Jerusalem Post Diplomatic Correspondent
The Foreign Minister, Mr. Abba Eban, has summoned French Ambassador Francis Euret to the Ministry today to protest at the transfer by Libya to Egypt of French-supplied Mirage warplanes. Officials said last night that Mr. Eban would stress the severity with which Israel views the transfer of the planes.
The officials said the Minister was fully aware that today is Easter Sunday. He nevertheless believed that the seriousness and urgency of the warplanes issue brooked no delay in Israel transmitting its views to France.

Beirut bars two Arabs from Cyprus

CYPRIOIS QUESTION ISRAELI DIPLOMAT

BEIRUT (Reuters). — Two Palestinians deported from Cyprus on Friday were banned from entering Lebanon because their travel documents were irregular, airport sources said here.
They denied reports that the two Arabs from the Gaza Strip had been turned back because they lacked 10 Lebanese pounds (LL13) to pay for an entry visa. The sources said Arab nationals were exempted from entry visa fees.
The men had arrived here on a laissez-passer on the basis of which an entry visa could not be given, the sources added. Their Iraqi passports, the sources said, had expired and they intended to renew them at the Iraqi Embassy in Beirut.
They were returned to Nicosia and later left for Damascus, after refusing an offer to be flown back to Israel.

Our diplomatic reporter adds:
An Israeli diplomat in Cyprus, Attaché Haim Golan, was detained by the authorities on Friday when he was found carrying a pistol on a main street in Nicosia. Foreign Ministry officials in Jerusalem said last night that Mr. Golan had not been arrested — merely stopped for questioning.

News agencies reporting from Nicosia quoted a Government spokesman as saying the Cyprus Foreign Ministry was awaiting a full report before deciding on any action. The spokesman did not say what had led the police to stop Mr. Golan and search him on Ledra Street, in the downtown shopping area.

Meanwhile, an Israeli surgeon has gone to Cyprus to treat the policeman who was wounded in the attack on the Israeli ambassador's residence on April 9. The surgeon, Professor Henry Romanoff of Hadassah Hospital in Jerusalem, was sent to Cyprus before the weekend after Ambassador Rahamim Timor suggested to the Cypriot authorities that an international expert be called in.

The policeman, who was wounded in the chest, is now out of danger, and Prof. Romanoff found that the Cypriot doctors attending him had provided excellent treatment. Mr. Timor visits the policeman in hospital every day.

Gaddafi offers post to Sadek

Jerusalem Post Arab Affairs Reporter
Libya's head of state, Mu'ammer Gaddafi, is trying to bring into his government Egypt's former Minister of War, General Ahmed Sadek, whom President Sadat fired last year, the Jordanian press reported yesterday. Sadek was ousted amid Egyptian efforts to improve relations with the Soviet Union following the expulsion of the Russian advisers last July.

The Jordanian press gave no source for the report. Gaddafi is known to have maintained close relations with Sadek, who is believed to be under house arrest in Cairo.

'Terrorists loath to hit El Al'

Transport Minister Shimon Peres said yesterday that terrorists were now more reluctant than ever to attack El Al planes because of improved security measures in the air and on the ground. "El Al is now considered the world's safest airline," he said.

Mr. Peres, speaking on Israel Radio's "Interview of the Month," added that he had proposed to the Cabinet that decorations be given to plane and ship crews who display courage and resourcefulness in guarding their craft against terrorist attacks. (Itim)

Saboteurs planned attack in Safad

By HIRSH GOODMAN
Jerusalem Post Military Correspondent

Security forces yesterday captured three infiltrators from Lebanon who had planned to attack passengers at the Safad bus station, the Army spokesman announced.

The three terrorists, who crossed into Israel on Friday night, were captured after a four-hour chase in the Dishon valley some three kilometres from the border in the Avdim area. After being cornered by soldiers and men from the Border Police they gave themselves up without firing a shot. One of the infiltrators was slightly injured when fire was used to flush them out of their hiding places in the thick foliage.

The three were armed with Kalashnikov rifles and grenades. They also had a two-day food supply and a makeshift medical kit.

The men revealed under questioning that they were members of the Fatah terrorist organization, and had infiltrated into Israel to carry out an attack at the Safad bus station. They intended firing their weapons and throwing grenades at passers-by from the hill overlooking the station.

This is the first terrorist infiltration from the Lebanese border in six weeks.

The terrorist news agency in Damascus claimed last night to have killed or wounded several Israeli soldiers in a three-hour clash on the outskirts of Safad.

The Palestine News Agency (Wafa) said three terrorists were missing after the "battle" early yesterday. It added that two others were wounded in the fighting but carried back to base by their companions.

U.S. warns of Viet truce violations

WASHINGTON (UPI). — The U.S. has warned the Soviet Union, Communist China and other parties to the International Conference on Vietnam that the Indochina cease-fire agreements are being massively violated by North Vietnam, the State Department said yesterday.
A Department spokesman said the U.S. had dispatched a lengthy and firmly worded diplomatic note to the 12 parties to the conference, which was convened in Paris in February to guarantee the January 27 Vietnam peace settlement.

Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah, who criticized the Council's resolution, said his government "in accordance with its inalienable rights and its international obligations, will continue to protect the people of Israel from Arab murder attacks."
If the Council could not pronounce itself fairly on "the murder of innocent men, women and children" (Continued on page 2, col. 3)

U.N. condemns Israel raids, 'all violence'

Abstentions: Eban: No victory for Egypt

By DAVID LANDAU
Jerusalem Post Diplomatic Correspondent

Foreign Minister Abba Eban said last night that the Security Council resolution had not benefited Egypt, which had initiated the debate. Eban praised U.S. "consistency" in opposing a tough draft resolution, and attacked France and Britain for criticizing Israel, which stood up to terrorism, instead of criticizing terrorism itself.

Officials in Jerusalem seemed well pleased last night with the upshot of the drawn-out Security Council debate. They considered the resolution as a defeat for the Egyptians and Lebanese, who had invested considerable efforts at New York in the hope of securing a tough resolution against Israel and forcing the U.S. to veto it. Observers could not recall such a weak condemnation of Israel after an IDF action against a neighbouring state. They stressed, too, the oblique attack in the resolution on Arab terrorism. The abstention of China, Russia and Guinea left no doubt that this was the meaning of that part of the resolution.

Answering reporters' questions after news of the resolution came through, Mr. Eban said:
"The Security Council has again proven, as predicted, its inability to expressly condemn Arab terrorism, which has lain at the root of Middle East tension this past decade. On the other hand, Arab acts of hostility, for the first time, were condemned by the Council, and the abstention of China, the U.S.S.R. and Guinea proves that this time the Arab arguments were not accepted in their entirety."

"Only the U.S. showed consistency in its principles from the beginning to the end of the debate, and it was thanks only to the U.S. that threats and warnings against Israel — for daring not to surrender to the plague of terrorism — were avoided."
Furthermore, the U.S. was responsible for the inclusion of a paragraph which is interpreted throughout the world as a condemnation of Arab terrorism — though not as specifically as would have been desirable.

"The debate served no purpose for Egypt, which initiated it, nor for Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohamed Fawzi, who said last night that the Security Council resolution had not benefited Egypt, which had initiated the debate. Eban praised U.S. "consistency" in opposing a tough draft resolution, and attacked France and Britain for criticizing Israel, which stood up to terrorism, instead of criticizing terrorism itself."

40 Russian Migs to Syria

WASHINGTON (AFP). — The Soviet Union has supplied Syria some 40 Mig-21 fighter-bombers and two minisubmersibles since the beginning of this year, sources close to the Pentagon said Friday.
They said Soviet and Czech arms deliveries to Iraq had increased this year. Iraq received "Ossa" missile boats and M-16 helicopters which transport 65 persons. About 40 Mig-21 fighter-bombers and two minisubmersibles since the beginning of this year, sources close to the Pentagon said Friday.

Trains searched after bomb warning

Jerusalem Post Reporter

HAIFA. — The police searched all passenger trains about noon on Friday after an anonymous telephone call to the Haifa railway station that a bomb had been planted in one of the trains. The caller gave no further details.

The luggage of passengers was searched as well as trains themselves, which were halted. Many trains were delayed as a result.

Detonator hurts two

Jerusalem Post Reporter

HAIFA. — A child, who exploded a detonator, he had found, caused slight injuries to Zedek Elron, 30, and his wife, Carmela, 23, at their home in Derech Zorfat here on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Elron's brother of 11 had found the detonator and had detonated it after attaching it to a flashlight battery. The two received first aid treatment at the Rambam Hospital.

NEARLY 5,000 PERSONS took part yesterday in the 10th annual Gattise March, held along a 25-km. route for adults and shelter routes for the younger marchers.

Mapam row over party post

By MARK SEGAL

TEL AVIV. — Mapam's Secretary-General, Mr. Meir Talmi, has denied that there are any political implications in the resignation of Mr. Naphthal Ben-Moshe as the party's organizational secretary.

Mr. Ben-Moshe is a leader of the anti-Alignment minority in Mapam. Mr. Talmi dismissed Mr. Ben-Moshe's charges of procrastination by the party leadership on the election of new party officers. He said that Mr. Ben-Moshe's complaints had a personal basis, and that it had already been decided by a party group, "the Elites" to recommend a successor to Mr. Ben-Moshe.

Replying to Mr. Talmi, Mr. Ben-Moshe said that "if our argument isn't political, what is it?"

Mr. Ben-Moshe reiterated his demand that the party central committee be decided to decide who should occupy his job. "Apparently they don't want to convene the central committee because they are afraid I might get re-elected."

He claimed that his work had been hampered ever since the party convention, and said he had received many expressions of support, even from the pro-Alignment majority.

At the recent Mapam convention, the anti-Alignment minority reassessed its one-third standing in the party, and later the party's executive council was selected according to affinity to one of the two blocs. Another element in the dispute is the intention of Kibbutz Arzi, which provides the financial backbone of Mapam, to tighten its control over the party's organization. Both probable successors to Mr. Ben-Moshe (Mr. Ephraim Rosen, of Kibbutz Sarid, and Mr. Uri Yoffe, of Kibbutz Yashum) are from the kibbutz movement.

Copter saves workers after fall into tower

By ABRAHAM YAHIEL

Jerusalem Post Reporter

NETANYA. — An Air Force helicopter had to be called on Friday afternoon to assist in extricating four labourers trapped when the scaffolding they were using to pour a concrete roof of a 52-metre high water-tower collapsed.

The four men fell into the reservoir part of the tower, 12 metres deep, after two-thirds of the roof's concrete had been poured. They managed to break their fall by grabbing protruding boards, but Netanyahu firemen who arrived promptly and climbed the tower could not extricate them because of the debris.

The helicopter lowered one of the firemen, with a stretcher, harness, and rope. The men cut one by one. Yitzhak Elron, Yehuda Fisher, Menashe Masal — all aged 35, and all from Eshkol Leshon — and Ephraim Barum, 25, from Khan Yunis, were taken to Heliel Yoffe Hospital in Haifa, where all were reported to be out of danger.

Goldmann misquoted

Dr. Nahum Goldmann, president of the World Jewish Congress, has stated that he was misquoted in the "Yiddish" report on his remarks in the symposium held on Thursday at a symposium on the Holocaust held in Jerusalem.

Dr. Goldmann stated: "What I really said was that several Jewish organizations were reluctant to try to get permission from President Roosevelt to transfer the money which was legally forbidden because of the state of war with Nazi Germany. When the President finally gave his approval it was the State Department which sabotaged the transfer until it was too late to save the children. There was no difficulty in making the money available once the permission of the President was obtained."

Transport Minister Shimron Peres chats with Captain Hehir of the Queen Elizabeth after the vessel docked at Ashdod yesterday.

HEAVY WATCH AS THE QUEEN 2 ARRIVES

Sightseers were banned from the port and even port workers needed special permits to enter. The police guarded the roads leading to the ports and only authorized cars were allowed into the port area. After special arrangements with Ashdod port authorities, newsmen were allowed to view the arrival of the liner from abroad, but were herded behind police barriers. The black-and-white ship was not festively decked out and it bore only four flags, those of Israel and Britain's merchant marine, the Cunard line, and a white-and-red ensign which means that the ship is under control of the port's pilot.

On the other hand, the pier was decorated with flags and large banners. There was a children's band from Kiryat Gat that added to the festive atmosphere. Among the officials that awaited the liner here, in addition to transport Minister Peres, were the director of the Ports Authority, Aharon Remes, the director of Ashdod port, Mordechai Berger and Ashdod Mayor Zvi Zilker.

Reporters were not allowed aboard ship. The ship's Captain Mortimer Hehir did not even hold a press conference as had been scheduled. Instead, he sent down to the pier Staff Capt. Douglas Ridley who held an impromptu press conference on the docks.

Capt. Ridley admitted that the ship had been under strict security which reached its peak on the night before arrival in Israel, when the ship was ordered to douse its lights. He denied that the ship had been under radio silence during several parts of its voyage.

Capt. Ridley revealed that the ship had steered away from the North African shore. "It meant a 25-mile change in course for us, but as you see, this did not alter our timetable and we arrived here an hour before time. Capt. Ridley also admitted that there had been some Israeli security men aboard but he declined to answer whether the ship was also carrying Royal Marines.

FLOATING HOTEL
About half the passengers went ashore yesterday morning to go on sightseeing tours. The others remained on board mainly because of the Sabbath.
Questioned by The Jerusalem Post about the demands made by religious circles not to allow the ship to berth on the Sabbath, Mr. Peres said, "I think the Sabbath should be respected. All we did was to dock the ship. A minute after docking the ship turned into a floating hotel and as you know, hotels are out of my jurisdiction."

Concerning the security measures, he expressed the belief that these had been overplayed by the press. "The safe arrival of the ship proves that we are able to make all the trips to and from Israel and that persons are not taking an immense risk even coming by sea."

Most of the passengers disembarked from the ship said it was an uneventful trip. Security measures were not seen but felt.

A young social researcher from San Francisco, Mark Bartel, said that the trip had actually been dull. A security officer of the ship told The Jerusalem Post that the main security checks were carried out on boarding and disembarking. The passengers then must pass a body check and carry three passes, an Israeli one, a ship pass and an identification card or passport.

One of the proudest couples who disembarked yesterday were Morton and Lee Nussbaum from New York City. They had brought along with them their eight-year-old granddaughter Judy, and six-year-old grandson Jayson Littman. Mrs. Nussbaum pointed to her grandchildren and said, "These two little children, they managed on both sides nights to steal the oftentimes under the noses of the security guards. In return for it the children received from their grandparents seven dollars each."

Another passenger, Joe Conway, of London, told The Post, "It has been a marvellous trip. We had a full schedule of activities on board. There was no sign of tension. He said: "We had a wonderful seder of 500 people on our way to Israel." The tourists were last night given a reception in Ashdod by the Mayor and municipality.

Knesset unit against closure of Arad Chemicals plants

Jerusalem Post Staff

The Knesset Finance Committee last week concluded its discussions on Arad Chemicals, held in the wake of the State Comptroller's report on the firm last August. The Committee concurred with the findings of the report, but decided against recommending the closure of the chemical plants.

In spite of the mistakes made and difficulties encountered in planning and running-in of the project, the Committee felt, closing it down or suspending its operation after so much has been invested would mean "the end of any efforts to develop chemical industry based on the country's natural resources."

The Committee noted that the Development Minister has appointed — as was suggested by the Committee in December — a committee of impartial experts to study the problem connected with the plant's operation by the fluidized-bed process, study alternative methods for its operation, compare the methods in terms of long-range feasibility and make its recommendations by the end of July, 1973.

The Committee also noted the Government is determined to press the American Madera Company, which was partner in establishing the complex, to bear its share of the responsibility for the plant's losses.

The Government has announced it would sue Madera if necessary. The plant's progress will be closely followed, and a detailed report would have to be submitted before the Finance Committee would consider approving any additional financial commitments for the firm, the Committee concluded.

The Arad Chemical Company was established in 1968, as a partnership between the Government (through several Government-owned firms) and the Madera Company. It had been planned, originally, that the complex would go into production of phosphoric acid by using the Aman method, perfected here, but the Madera Company later insisted on utilizing the fluidized-bed method — newly developed by Allied Chemicals (of the U.S.).

Although many experts in Israel favoured the Aman method, the Government went along with Madera (a subsidiary of the Giant Allied Chemicals), and the plant began to operate in 1971 — after various delays and problems, including a giant blaze which caused $14m. damage. Just as the plant began to operate, however, the Madera Company sold out its share to the Government for the exact amount it had invested.

A year after the plant began to operate, no phosphoric acid was being produced. A giant reactor, built to produce hydrochloric acid (HCL) from Dead Sea brine, had its plaster roof cave in. Without the HCL, the plant's second reactor, which combines HCL with phosphates to produce the phosphoric acid, stood idle. After some $120m. had been invested, it was estimated that $150,000 and several months' work would be required to repair the faulty reactor. Arad Chemical spokesmen estimated, at the end of 1972, that losses would amount to some $120m. by the end of 1973. Meanwhile, the second reactor began to show faults.

Arad Chemicals was coupled with the now defunct Vered Corporation several times in the Knesset, in motions of no-confidence against the Government, tabled by Gahal.

Gahal's leading economist, Dr. Yohanan Bader, at the Knesset Finance Committee, criticized the Government's role in establishment of the chemical plant. He proposed that the Committee recommend to the Knesset a bill limiting the Government's powers to undertake industrial or business ventures only by the Knesset's prior approval for each specific case. The bill would specify that approval is to be given only for essential ventures, which could not attract private enterprise. Dr. Bader's proposed recommendation was defeated.

Israel raid condemned by the U.N.

dren by Arab terror gangs," it was obviously not the body capable of acting on any of the complex issues of the Arab-Israeli conflict, he said.

"In this Passover season one is tempted to say that the exodus of the Israelites from ancient Egypt would have been condemned by this Security Council, had the Egyptians asked for it," the Israeli representative added.

"Israel expects the Government of Lebanon to act forthwith to eliminate the terrorist bases and centres within its borders."

Lebanese Ambassador Edouard Ghorrat expressed himself "very unhappy" with the final resolution which, even before it was revised, had been "not satisfactory to us."

He recalled that in previous resolutions after attacks on Lebanon the Council had warned Israel of the possible consequences, in the form of other steps or measures open to it, if these were repeated.

Ghorrat said the operative paragraph condemning "all acts of violence which endanger or take innocent human lives" must not be interpreted except in connection with the other sections of the resolution. He termed Tekoa's remarks "nothing but another expression of contempt for the Council."

Mr. Tekoa would like to tell you that you and the General Assembly of the U.N. do not represent the real international public opinion," he said. "Only a few little gatherings in various parts of the world who make expressions in favour of Israel, they alone represent enlightened opinion."

we shall continue to insist on the application of one principle and that is that if there is international law it shall apply equally to all states, and Israel will not be an exception on the implementation of its fundamental, legitimate rights under the tenets of international law and the charter of the U.N."

After the vote U.S. Ambassador John A. Scall said he had heard "several distorted and one-sided references to U.S. assistance in meeting Israel's legitimate defence needs."

"I sensed an effort to depict this as a flow of arms through one pipeline. Even as we sit in this chamber, major deliveries of war material have been made by certain powers to several other countries in the area."

He said the U.S. "does not propose to sit idly by while others pour arms into the Middle East for one side, thus tempting some governments that with these new arms they could risk another round of the Middle East war."

Scall apparently referred, among other things, to reports of Soviet deliveries of Mig fighter planes to Syria. (See story, Page 1.) Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik replied that Israel was the aggressor in the Mideast and the Arabs the victims.

Provision of assistance, including arms, to the victims of aggression is a just matter," he said. "The provision of assistance to the aggressor is a flagrant violation of the United Nations charter."

By unanimous decision Friday, the Council agreed to reopen the Middle East debate for a full review of U.N. and other peace-making efforts as soon as Secretary General Kurt Waldheim has submitted a requested report on the situation.

The special representative, Swedish Ambassador Gunnar V. Jarring, will be invited to come to New York to take part in the Council meetings. These are expected to begin at the end of May, after Waldheim's return from visits to a number of African countries.

He had contemplated trips also to Middle East capitals to try to set a new peace initiative in motion. But he is expected now to await the outcome of the Council's new debate requested by Egyptian Foreign Minister el-Zayyat, who will return here for it.

Mohammed el-Zayyat who journeyed to New York especially for the occasion. The debate proved that peace will not be advanced by international polemics but by negotiations between the parties. It must be hoped that when the Arab states see the meager results of this debate they will understand that such events are not a substitute for serious negotiations, upon which Israel is ready to embark at any time."

The U.S. informed Israel officially three days ago that it would veto any draft resolution containing threats or warnings to Israel, and any draft resolution which did not contain a condemnation of Arab terrorism.

But, Washington felt no need to veto the final draft since the Arabs' own friends — Russia and China — themselves did not support it — on the grounds that it contained a condemnation of the Palestinian "resistance movement."

Body exhumed after murder is suspected

GAZA. — Quick action by the police here led yesterday to the discovery of a murder believed to have been committed in "defence of the family's honour."

After learning that a young woman whose death had not been satisfactorily explained had been buried in Khan Yunis on Thursday, the police had the body exhumed and an autopsy performed. They learnt that the body was that of Vadad Sa'elman Sha'at, 18, from Rafah, and that she had been killed by strangulation.

The girl had been single, and had become pregnant.

Her brother, Mohammed, 22, is reported to have been arrested.

New commit for writers

TEL AVIV. — The Hebrew Association held a special conference on Thursday night to new executive committee, following the resignation of four members.

During the past few months the Association had been in turn the issue of accepting new writers into its ranks, promise proposal passed in called for the establishment writers' federation, which corporate associations of various languages.

The new executive committee consists of: Azriel Uchman Barzel, K.A. Bartini, Shlomo Itamar Yanoz-Kest, A.B. Y. rael Cohen, Zvi Luz, Ben, Michaly, Moshe Shamir, Sheva Sherif of Tel Aviv, Golan, Yehoshua Tan-Pai s Toran of Jerusalem; and Kariv and Shlomo Shalom of.

The convention also authorized new executive, together Association's Council, to elect president, to replace the late Hazaz.

THE HERMON RESORT site will be open to tourists throughout the year in future. Until now it has been open during the skiing season only.

Students are held—then freed—after protest in Moscow

(UPI). — Moscow Jews, activists to white-haired students at synagogue service to congratulate them on their Jewish emigration. American visitors had staged a demonstration at the office on Friday and had been held for eight hours. The police beat them, but they had been seen by the police. The police beat them, but they had been seen by the police. The police beat them, but they had been seen by the police.

One member of the group called Western correspondents to say the demonstration was going on. Members of the group said they were kicked and hit on the head by the police. The girls' hair was pulled. Klein said a crowd of Russians that had formed struck at them, spat on them and yelled "Zhid." At the first police station they were taken to, attempts were made to "intimidate us." They were not allowed to call the embassy and told they would be sent to a labour camp for hooliganism and trespassing. Later, they were taken to a second station where, Klein said, "we got the kid glove treatment, including tea and cookies." The members of the group refused refreshment and were finally released and returned to their hotel.

Hungary ousts Israeli

Mass. (UPI). — An Israel education instructor at the University of Massachusetts, said here that he was the Hungarian Government expelled an international symposium Budapest last week.

He said he carried an Israeli passport and that he was in Budapest about his and affiliation with the movement.

He received an invitation to attend the 1st International Symposium on Motion Biology in Budapest and present a paper on "Biochemical analyses of motion." He said he had the Hungarian Embassy advised a visa good for six months at Budapest.

At breakfast the next morning a person told me I had to go to the Foreign Ministry immediately. His passport was taken from him and he was forced to stay in a room with a guard for the entire day. He was questioned intensively during the day.

The next morning he was returned to the Ministry and told to take a flight to Vienna within an hour. The interpreter had told him not to ask questions "or you will stay here a long time."

Ariel said his symposium papers and other papers he planned to use to apply for a U.S. Government grant were taken from him.

"I was the only one to my knowledge who was thrown out," he said. "I was the only one who had an Israeli passport."

Remains of Roman wall uncovered

A section of the Roman wall of Jerusalem, built by order of the Emperor Hadrian in the second century C.E., has been uncovered on Mount Zion by the archaeologist Magen Broshi.

Mr. Broshi told "Idit" it was fairly certain that the wall was part of Aelia Capitolina, the pagan city built by Hadrian on the ruins of Jerusalem after the suppression of the Bar Kochba revolt in 135 C.E.

The wall was found behind the Armenian Church on the western slope of Mount Zion, facing the Yemin Moshe quarter. Mr. Broshi said he believed the Roman wall was in use during the Byzantine period and also possibly in the Crusader period. (Idit)

Police seize 7 kilo of hashish in Acre

ACRE.—Seven kilograms of hashish, hidden in an empty store in the old city here, were seized by the police on Friday. The owner of the store, Alia Khawawa, was remanded for 10 days by order of a local magistrate.

Police have seized about 20 kilograms of hashish and opium during the past few months, causing a reported shortage in the district.

EASTER SUNDAY MARKED TODAY

Jerusalem Post Reporter Christians of various denominations will this morning converge on the Church of the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem, where Easter Sunday will be celebrated by those following the Gregorian calendar — while the followers of the Julian calendar will observe the Sunday of the Veneration of the Cross, marking the beginning of Easter Holy Week for Eastern Churches.

The day's services, to be staggered throughout the day, will be led off by the traditional entry to the Church of the Holy Sepulchre by the Patriarchs and the Archbishops of the various Christian communities. Greek Orthodox Patriarch Benedictos I, Armenian Patriarch Yeghishhe Derderian and Coptic and Syrian church heads will go in procession to the Church of the Holy Sepulchre to officiate at services marking the beginning of Easter Holy Week.

The Western churches wind up the week today with services marking Jesus' resurrection. Latin Patriarch J. J. Beilich will head a Pontifical High Mass early this morning, while similar services are held in all Catholic churches. Services will also be observed by the Protestant churches, some of which have planned dawn prayers, usually held at sunrise.

Celebrations by the Western churches reached their climax last night with the faithful chanting, "For He has risen as He said." The resurrection ceremony was celebrated with much pageantry at the Holy Sepulchre, where all atmosphere is created to match the event at which Jesus was said to have reappeared "like lightning."

Partial week's truce for Londonderry

BRISTOL (UPI). — The British Army reacted cautiously yesterday to an Irish Republican Army announcement of a partial one-week truce in Londonderry, beginning tomorrow. It said British troops will not shoot IRA gunmen if they keep out of sight.

The Provisional IRA yesterday announced a cease-fire in Londonderry's Roman Catholic Bogside and Creggan districts during a one-week community festival beginning tomorrow.

It said normal military operations would continue elsewhere and reserved the right of retaliatory action in these areas in the event of the British Army carrying out their normal arrest and harassment policy.

A spokesman for the Bogside Community Association, which had pleaded for the IRA truce for the week of Irish song and dance events, said, "We are delighted and appreciate this gesture."

But British officers said troops would maintain their patrols and arms searches throughout Londonderry during the truce and would not slacken their vigilance. Comparative peace prevailed in Northern Ireland yesterday in the wake of a sniper attack on Friday night in Belfast's Catholic Ballymurphy area in which a soldier and three local women were wounded. The women were hit by ricochets when they rushed to help the wounded soldier. An army spokesman said their presence probably saved the soldier's life by frightening off the sniper.

British commanders have, however, alerted the 16,000 troops, 5,000 militiamen and 4,500 police to enforce security for more than 50 parades planned for Easter Sunday and Monday by Catholics and Protestants.

The Catholics march to mark the anniversary of the 1916 Easter rising in Dublin that led to Irish independence from Britain. The Protestants traditionally parade at Easter.

French mission to Iraq BAGHDAD (Reuters). — A French delegation has been invited to visit Iraq to discuss closer bilateral economic and trade relations, it was announced here.

Egyptian war threats 'less serious' than in May 1967

Jerusalem Post Reporter TIBERIAS. — Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir said here yesterday that Israel was taking the war threats of President Sadat less seriously than those of President Nasser in May, 1967, because of "the billions we have spent on armaments since the Six Day War." A total of IL25 billion had been spent on defence since then, and another IL40 billion would be spent during the next six years.

Answering questions at a meeting of the local Labour Party branch, Mr. Sapir said that one of the objectives of the military parade in Jerusalem on Independence Day was to let the Egyptians see that they would be ill-advised to renew the war, and he considered the IL13m cost of the parade money "well spent."

Mr. Sapir said that the strength of the country was expressed not only by its military and economic power, but also by its growing population, which had increased from 700,000 in 1948 to three million.

The economic conference to be held in Jerusalem next month would mark a "revolutionary turning point" in the development of the economy. He believed that income tax for salaried employees should be reduced by another 5 per cent.

Sergeant forgets file: So judge refuses remand

TEL AVIV. — A local magistrate on Friday refused to remand four men suspected of planning a burglary because the police investigator did not bring his file to court.

The four — Avner and Gideon Sharabi, Yosef Shemtov and Aviel Ozeri — were arrested when the police found burglary tools and gloves in their car. Police said they believed they were on their way to commit a burglary when arrested.

But Judge Haim Shapiro turned down the request of Rev Samel Yosef Nasser to remand the suspects after he learned the police sergeant hadn't brought the file of his investigation to court. The sergeant said he had all the information in his head.

Without the file, the judge said, "I can't examine the police version of the case, which, with all due respect to the police, the law obliges me to do."
The judge then freed the suspects on IL2,000 bail each. (Idit)

Haifa Theatre ends the year with a surplus

Jerusalem Post Reporter HAIFA. — The Haifa City Theatre has ended the 1972-73 financial year (but not yet its artistic season) with a surplus of IL500. The budget totalled IL2.5m.

The Theatre expects that the budget for the current year will be IL3.2m.

"About half of our budget comes from the Education and Culture Ministry (IL780,000) and the Municipality (IL600,000), but that is still much less than the public support which other theatres get. Habibah, for instance," says the general manager of the theatre, Ya'acov Ya'our.

He told the press on Friday that when the artistic season ends in about three months' time, between 250,000 and 300,000 persons will have attended the Theatre's performances.

Mr. Ya'our said that the rare feat of ending the year without a deficit (achieved only once before in the Theatre's 13 years history) was due to increased grants from the Government and City; to the stopping of performances away from home unless fully booked in advance; and to the unusual success of the play "Hefetz" by playwright Hanoch Levin. This play had accounted for 140 of the Theatre's 420 performances so far.

The Theatre had also set up a second group, Stage Two, which had been giving performances for several months.

The City Theatre would start its 73-74 (14th) annual subscription drive after Passover. Of the 9,000 subscribers in the outgoing year, 1,450 had also booked for the newly-opened Stage Two. "We'll offer tempting reductions to those who subscribe to both stages," Mr. Ya'our promised.

Artistic director Oded Kotler said that the programme for the new season would repeat the "trinity" formula: one third each of classical, original (Hebrew), and modern (translated) plays. Plays by Shakespeare, Chekhov, and other European or Aristophanes would make up the classic repertoire. The original Hebrew plays will include "Last Treatments" by A. B. Yehoshua, and "Spotted Tigers" by Ya'acov Shabbatai.

The list of possibilities in the foreign contemporary section includes the play "Vasco" by a Lebanese author, George Shehadeh, who is reported to have permitted its performance here.

2 held in Haifa for assault

HAIFA. — Two security-minded young men sustained face injuries in attempting to establish the identity of two other men who were loitering in the Mahana David quarter here "in suspicious circumstances" on Friday night, the police spokesman said.

The two, Daniel Adis, 26, and Amos Cohen, 24, asked two men in a van for their papers. But when they drew nearer they were assaulted. The two alleged attackers, from Jenin and Umm el Fahm, were detained for interrogation.

RAMAT GAN HAKOAH WINS NATIONAL LEAGUE TITLE

By PAUL KOHN, Jerusalem Post Sports Reporter

AVIV.—Hakoah-Maccabi of Ramat Gan yesterday beat Kfar Saba Hapoel win the National League soccer championship for the second time in its history. Hakoah was league champion last in 1965.

yesterday's win, Hakoah a five-point lead over Tel Aviv, led to a 1-1 draw in the only two more games until the end of the league.

Aviv Maccabi moved into the lead at the expense of Jerusalem, whom the Tel Aviv team beat 1-0 in Jerusalem yesterday. It was Tel Aviv Maccabi's 11th success in the league.

At the other end of the table, Jerusalem Hapoel, who had been in the relegation zone, moved into the safety zone with a 1-0 win over Kfar Saba Hapoel.

Five thousand at the Katamon ground in Jerusalem were extremely disappointed by the defeat against the run of play of Jerusalem Hapoel. The Jerusalem attack missed several goal-scoring chances in the first half and throughout the game forced 10 corners against nine for Tel Aviv Maccabi. The Tel Aviv goal was scored in the 66th minute by Uri Shukman. This player fired onto a pass by Zvi Rosen to shoot in from 13 meters. The Jerusalem defence pleaded for offside but referee Aharon Gaon allowed the goal. Two minutes later, Jerusalem Hapoel was awarded a penalty but Leon Andali's shot was saved by goalkeeper Yehoshua Gai. Continued Jerusalem Hapoel pressure brought no goals.

In Haifa, Yona Zelikovsky gave Tel Aviv Hapoel the lead in the 10th minute. Haifa Maccabi fought back and missed a number of goal-scoring chances until the 88th minute when 32-year-old veteran Danny Rom (Smidowitz) netted the equalizer with a shot from 14 metres. Twenty thousand fans turned out for the needle match between Shimshon and Jerusalem Beter. The game was marked by rough play and it was surprising that referee Avraham Klein did not send off players from both teams. The fans were left especially disappointed as the second game at the same stadium, between Tel Aviv Beter and Petah Tikva Hapoel, also ended in a goalless draw.

Netanya Maccabi extracted itself from the relegation danger by beating doomed Marmorek Hapoel 3-1, after trailing 0-1. All four goals were scored with headers and in the last 20 minutes of play. Meir Hayke gave Marmorek Hapoel the lead in the 70th minute. Three minutes later Shaya Topolansky put Netanya level, and was followed by goals by Yehoshua Gai and Israel Hajaj.

Beer Sheva Hapoel fielded seven youth players against Petah Tikva Maccabi, and did well to force a 1-1 draw in Petah Tikva. Avraham Numa gave them the lead after 10 minutes, with Yitzhak Seltzer getting the equalizer in the 70th minute for Petah Tikva Maccabi.

ARSENAL, LEEDS EDGE CLOSER TO LIVERPOOL

LONDON (AP). — John Tudor, Newcastle striker, scored two goals to upset title-chasing Liverpool and keep the English soccer championship in a state of uncertainty. Newcastle came from behind to down Liverpool 2-1.

Arsenal drew 0-0 at Everton and gained a point on Liverpool. Leeds hammered Crystal Palace 4-0 and gained two points.

But Liverpool, with 57 points and two games to play, are still favorites for the title. Arsenal have 54 points with three games to play and Leeds have 51 points with four to come.

Norwich City won 1-0 at West Bromwich and edged themselves two points clear of the bottom of the standings. West Bromwich and Crystal Palace, each with 28 points and two games left, appear likely to drop to the Second Division.

Norwich have 30 points and have three games to come. This was the story of the First Division games:

Newcastle 2, Liverpool 1: When Kevin Keegan headed a goal in the 24th minute Liverpool appeared well on the way towards clinching the title. But Tudor headed Newcastle level from a long high cross by Ken Hibbit in the 43rd minute. In the 66th minute Tudor nipped in to score the winner, after Tom Smith had failed to clear. Right on time Newcastle's goalkeeper, Ian McFaul, made a thrilling save from Chris Lawler. Fights broke out in the crowd and police hauled 42 fans out of the stadium.

Everton 0, Arsenal 0: Everton scored no goals in the first half, but both Mike Lyons and Joe Harper shot wide from good positions. In the second half, Arsenal sent on Charlie George as substitute for the injured Jeff Blockley, and George put new life into the attack. He sent in one free kick which looked a certain winner, but goalkeeper Gordon West made a brilliant save.

Leeds 4, Crystal Palace 0: Palace's defence took a terrible hammering as Billy Bremner sent Leeds ahead with an overhead kick in the 16th minute, and from then on Leeds swarmed around the Palace goal. Frank Gray sent a well-placed shot into the Palace net in the 26th minute, and

Yehuda Sharabani, Captain of Hakoah-Maccabi of Ramat Gan, is carried on the shoulders of happy fans after yesterday's victory. (Alexander Susskind)

Peter Lorimer scored in the 38th minute to make it 3-0 at half-time. Palace fought back bravely in the second half but seldom looked like scoring. In the 76th minute Bromwich provided the pass for Alan Clarke to score Leeds' fourth goal.

Derby 1, West Ham 1: Derby, England's hope in the European Cup of Champions semi-finals, pinned West Ham in their own half but in the end were lucky to escape with a draw. In the 76th minute, in a rare West Ham breakaway, Bertie Lutton was sent through by Ted MacDougall and scored. Two minutes from time Bobby Moore brought down Kevin Hector and gave away a penalty, and Archie Gemmill saved Derby from the spot.

West Bromwich 0, Norwich 1: David Cross grabbed a goal six minutes from the end to give Norwich their first league victory in 21 games. This goal, coming after a hectic spell of attacking by West Bromwich, could keep Norwich in the first division.

Manchester United 0, Manchester City 0: A crowd of 61,500 jammed Old Trafford stadium to see Bobby Charlton, United's long-playing star and former England World Cup hero, play his last home game before retiring. In the second half, Charlton sent a free-kick across the goal for George Graham, whose header was saved by goalkeeper Ron Healey.

Ipswich 2, Wolverhampton 1: John Richards gave Wolves a 1-0 half-time lead. Just before the interval Colin Viljoen of Ipswich and Francis Munro of Wolves were sent off for fighting. Ipswich got on top in the second half and surged to victory with goals by Peter Morris with a 20-metre drive in the 56th minute and Trevor Whymark with a diving header in the 71st minute.

Birmingham 3, Stoke 1: Malcolm Page sent Birmingham into the lead in the 10th minute and Trevor Francis clipped another goal over the heads of the Stoke defence just before half-time. Bob Hinton put Birmingham into a 3-0 lead before Jimmy Robertson pulled one back for Stoke.

Tottenham 1, Leicester 1: Tottenham, leading several regular players because of injuries, went into an early lead through a glancing header by Alan Gilzean. Tottenham completely dominated the game but could not score again. Two minutes from the end Keith Waller equalized with one of the very few shots Leicester had in the whole game.

Chelsea 2, Southampton 1: Jose Kiskup, a former Chelsea player, sent Southampton into the lead in the 19th minute. But Mick Brocky scored his first-ever goal for Chelsea two minutes later and the London team steadily got on top. Peter Osgood set up the chance for John Hollins to win the game with a fine shot in the 54th minute.

Sheffield United 3, Coventry 1: From the fifth minute, when Mike Coop put through his own goal to give Sheffield a lucky lead, Coventry were up against it. Jim Bone made it 2-0 from Bill Dearden's headed pass. Roy Barry pulled one back for Coventry with a free-kick which touched two players on its way into the net. Dearden got Sheffield's third in the 65th minute.

Santeiu, Kronk in men's single finals

By JACK LEON

Jerusalem Post Sports Reporter
TEL AVIV. — Rumania's third-ranking Ionel Santeiu and Paul Kronk, No. 1 junior in Australia, will fight out tomorrow's men's singles final of the 38th annual Passover Junior Tennis Championships at Ramat Gan. Through to the women's last round are Cora Creydt-Schedwy, of West Germany, and local girl Paulina Peisachov.

After a week at the Tel Aviv Maccabi Courts here, the tournament moves over to the Ramat Gan Tennis Stadium this afternoon for the last two days of play. Today's programme, starting at 2 p.m., will consist of the men's and women's doubles finals, while the two singles finals take place tomorrow (beginning at 1.30 p.m.).

In yesterday's semi-finals at the Maccabi Club, No. 1 seed Santeiu powered his way to a 6-2, 6-0, 6-0 victory over ex-South Australian junior champion Mark Cocks, who had no answer to the all-round power and court-craft of the little Rumanian fireball. Kronk, seeded third, came through 7-6, 6-2, 6-3 against Israeli No. 1 and second seed Yehoshua Shalem in a stimulating two-hour match played in pleasant sunshine.

Both the women's semi-finals were rather one-sided affairs, with recent immigrants from South Africa finishing on the losing side in each of them. No. 1 seed Cora Schedwy, runner-up to Australian Vicki Lancaster last Passover, came through 6-2, 6-1 against Jasna Schmahman (who on Friday pulled off a good 6-3, 3-6, 6-4 win over Tamar Sandik). Former junior girls' champion and second seed Paulina Peisachov, competing in her first local tournament for four years following her recent return from studies in the U.S., defeated Barbara Weinrook 6-2, 6-0. Miss Weinrook edged out West German Petra Wims 7-6, 7-5 to reach the last four, while the other defeated quarter-finalists were Tel Dar and Gabriella Leinen, also from West Germany.

In the best of the men's quarters on Friday, Israel's young Davis Cup player Yair Wertheimer took Kronk to 2-6, 6-2, 6-2, and Cocks defeated local No. 2 Yosef Stabholz 6-4, 6-4. Santeiu ended Felix Kaplan's great winning run, beating the popular newcomer from Lithuania 6-2, 6-0, while Shalem put out Danny Kalovsky 6-1, 6-3.

There were upsets aplenty in the men's doubles. Cocks and Goldman-Kaplan reached the finals last night. The scratch Israeli pair scored upset wins over Australians Michael Hewitt and Phil Martin in the semi-finals, and the Hafia pair Shmuel Dank and Reuven Miller in the quarters. The women's doubles final will be between Schedwy-Wims and Peisachov-Sandik.

More shocks were provided by 15-year-old Shlomo Glickstein, who yesterday got through to the last four of the "restricted" singles with successive victories over Israel's ex-junior champion Goldman and current No. 1 junior Reuven Porges.

Wertheimer yesterday evening took his second straight Passover boys' under-18 singles crown, defeating Kalovsky 6-2, 6-3 in a mediocre final. The girls' under-18 singles was won earlier by Ronit Heller.

Doubles winners in the just-concluded annual Passover National Junior Championships here were: boys' 18 — Kalovsky and Wertheimer; boys' 16 — Glickstein and Sher; girls 18 — Arieli and Traubert; girls 16 — Arieli and Heller; mixed 18 — Wertheimer and Porges; mixed 16 — Glickstein and Heller.

That may sound pretty ungrateful because of course we American Jews think it's wonderful that these Jewish State now and we're very proud of Israel for all its achievements, and we send money. Even I send money. But we get the Jerusalem Post and we just read what a tremendous rise there's been in Israel living standards just since 1967. Lots of Israelis have lots of things it says, TVs, refrigerators, gas stoves, washing machines, cars.

The Israelis here write their friends in Israel. "Come to America. Why knock yourself out in Israel? Cars cost half as much, you don't have to buy an apartment, you can rent. TV sets cost half as much, there's no annual TV tax, you can get seven different local stations on the same set and they're on almost 24 hours every day. Jobs pay twice as much, three times as much. Income taxes are lower. There's no immigration quota on how many Israelis can come. So why stay in Israel?" To their friends they write, "Come over." To us they complain. They're afraid to go out

There's an Israeli Office for Professionals here in New York which uses a computer to match Israelis in America with job opportunities in Israel. They have a list of 6,000 Israeli professionals living in America. One thousand of the names have a special mark because those have indicated that they may be ready to go back to Israel in a year, maybe two years. At the most three. Maybe. The other 5,000 have refused to make such definite commitments.

Give our love to Shulamit and the missus.
All the best,

THE U.N. GAME

AFTER several postponements and much bargaining the U.N. Security Council ruled by 11 votes to none, with four abstentions, to censure the Israel raid on terrorist headquarters in Beirut two weeks ago, in a formula that also expresses disapproval of other forms of violence directed against innocent people.

According to the experts, the resolution is not phrased in particularly sharp terms. The censure of the terrorists is so vague as to be unrecognizable except by those familiar with what has become U.N. professional jargon. There was certainly no suggestion of cause and effect, that the organization attacked in Beirut was that which had been committing the violence against innocent persons. In the original version, the resolution proposed by France and Britain had contained no reference to terrorism at all: as far as they were concerned, the trouble began on April 10, with the Israel raid on peaceful Beirut, Egypt, which had demanded the inclusion of sanctions against Israel, was dissatisfied, and Egyptian Foreign Minister el-Zayyat protested that after a week's argument nothing had changed. We can understand, if not justify, his frustration. In the early years after 1948, on any occasion when an assault across the border into Israel from Gaza, Jordan or Syria was actually identified by the U.N. Observers as having taken place, and attributed to Arab forces of some kind, the censure was either vetoed by the Soviet Union, or watered down to such a degree as to make no further sense. The U.N.'s inability to act is not new, but there have been two changes over the years. One is here, on the spot, in that, despairing of U.N. action against terrorists, Israel now carries out the job itself. The other is at the U.N., where the U.S. is now prepared to use or threaten to use its veto, which it had been very reluctant to do in the early years.

The threat of the veto is effective. Warned that the U.S. would not allow a resolution to pass that was one-sided to the extent of not mentioning any violence but that in Beirut, France and Britain preferred to amend the text to a compromise version which was very far from balanced, but saved the U.S. the need actually to employ their veto.

As in a well-staged comedy, Guinea then rose to ask for a further recess — the Chinese delegation, it appears, wished to consult with Peking whether they should now, in their turn, veto the new resolution because it cast aspersions on the Palestinian terrorists whom China supports fully. Peking decided against this step, possibly realizing that it would make very little difference, and deciding to keep their veto for some more urgent occasion.

Thus in the end the three largest powers abstained from the vote, the U.S. because the censure of the terrorists was inadequate, the Soviet Union because the denunciation of Israel was too weak, and China because of the oblique reference to the terrorists. They were joined by Guinea, which perhaps likes to play in the big league. There has rarely been more striking illustration of the self-defeating behaviour of the Security Council's structure. The pity is that the relatively neutral nations are drawn into supporting these resolutions, which have no title to do with the issue under consideration by the time the bargaining is ended.

ISRAEL PRESS

MIRAGES TO EGYPT

Davar (Histadrut) writes on the reported transfer to Egypt of Mirage planes supplied to Libya by France saying: "The French are thereby promoting the danger of conflagration in the region. The timing of the transfer of the Mirages from Libya to Egypt adds credence to the assumption that Sadat is about to mount a demonstrative military operation."

Omer (Histadrut) writes: "This clearly indicates the change undergone by the French attitude — from active help for Israel to active help for her enemies."

Ha'aretz (non-party) writes on the hunger strikers demonstrating for Soviet Jewry outside the Prime Minister's office: "It is not true that the Government of Israel is not doing everything possible to Hamodia (Agudat Yisrael) writes immigration of Jews from the Soviet Union. With all due respect for the feelings of the strikers, they can be expected to exercise their sense of proportion. There is not a single country in the world, not even the strongest, which achieves all its goals in one go."

Al Hamsahmar (Mapam) writes: "While the reported suspension of the academic tax is good news, it does not signify the end of the struggle on behalf of the right of Jews to emigrate from the Soviet Union. There is no telling as yet whether this is merely a good-will gesture in anticipation of Brezhnev's visit to Washington and the debate in Congress on the U.S.-Soviet trade agreement, or whether it is really a firm policy decision."

Ha'aretz (National Religious) writes on the 12th convention of the Bnei Akiva movement: "Hamodia (Agudat Yisrael) writes in praise of yeshiva students who are strict observers of Jewish religious precepts."

WHEN Chancellor Willy Brandt visits Israel from June 7 to 10 he will do so "in full knowledge of the past" but "looking ahead" to the future.

Sources close to the Chancellor have begun to use these phrases to strike a balance between Bonn's traditional ties towards Israel and the growing confidence which West German diplomacy had won under Brandt's leadership.

It is expected that Brandt's first act on arrival will be to lay a wreath at the Yad Vashem memorial for the six million Jews who died in the Holocaust.

Mr. Brandt, who fled Germany in 1933 and resisted Hitler from Scandinavia until the end of the war, will thus make clear at the outset that the events of history cannot be erased from the memories of Germans and Jews.

Last week, speaking to his Social Democratic Party congress, the Chancellor restated unequivocally that there can be questioning of the Jewish State's "right of existence."

Yet Mr. Brandt will also be going to Israel as the man who broke West Germany out of the rigid confrontation between East and West, and who eased Bonn's strained relations with the Arab world. It is thought here that the fact that Brandt has no Nazi stains on his past will make it easier for him to pursue Bonn's tight-rope balance between Arabs and Israelis.

Above all, Chancellor Brandt would like to see Western Europe make what he recently called "a weightier contribution to normalization, to the organization of peace in a region (the Middle East) which is practically at our doorstep." Mr. Brandt made the remark in an interview before his visit to Yugoslavia last week, stimulating speculation he might be planning a new Middle East initiative. Authoritative sources subsequently confirmed that Mr. Brandt's visit to Israel, plus Foreign Minister Walter Scheel's trip to Egypt, Jordan and Lebanon in late May, can be seen as a "first step" towards a new and possibly greater engagement in the Middle East. But, these sources insisted, Mr. Brandt has no intention of playing the mediator between Jews and Arabs, nor even of acting as "spokesman" for Europe, for which he has no mandate.

Lack of information The sources say Bonn's biggest handicap at present is a lack of first-hand information, and that what Mr. Brandt wants most is a

The West German Chancellor's visit to Israel in June — and his Foreign Minister's coming trip to Cairo — can be seen as the "first step" in a new Bonn engagement in the Middle East, writes correspondent BRIAN ARTHUR.

Publicly, Bonn has stressed recently that the Middle East is in the hands of Israel, its neighbours and the Big Powers U.S. and Russia.

Privately, officials here argued that peace-making since the 1967 war have been totally monopolized by the powers and the U.N. whereas real problem is to get the Jews and Israel together for a direct change of views.

So far the latter view has been that at the highest of government, and will play a role during Mr. Brandt's exploration of the Middle East.

Trade relations

There will also be other important matters on the agenda. The Chancellor sits down with Mr. Meir at the conference in Jerusalem. In addition to trade relations such as trade, cultural exchange, German point to relations between European Common Market and world monetary reform, the for a European security conf and East-West European trade relations.

Of special interest for should be the role of West Communist East Germany the two states enter the United Nations as expected next autumn. Sooner or later the two states will be voting against other on key world issues. I already making clear this is of life with West Germany not change despite its "good neighbour" treaty with East Berlin last December.

Either Mr. Brandt or his Minister will go to New York the opening U.N. session to Bonn's policies before the body, and this obviously is portance to Israel.

TREATMENT OF PRISONERS

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post Sir, — Further to your article of April 8 about Standard Minimum Rules for the treatment of prisoners, I wish to point out that only one state in the U.S. has accepted S.M.R. as the criterion for prison policy. On October 5, 1971, Pennsylvania accepted the U.N. rules as a bill of rights for prisoners. It is to the credit of Israel that Mr. Shestak, the Chairman of the International League for the Rights of Man and a Philadelphia attorney, was able to convince himself on the spot that Standard Minimum Rules are applied equally to terrorists and ordinary prisoners in those prisons he visited.

BELLA RAYDIN Haifa, April 8. RESIGNATION STORY BASELESS

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post Sir, — In your issue of April 10, you announced the arrival in the Holy Land of Maulana Smeeth J.D. Qamar, and add that I have resigned "for personal reasons." The truth is that all Ahmadisyya Muslim missionaries devote their lives to religious service anywhere in the world and sign an agreement with the community not to resign from the work assigned to them nor demand any remuneration for services rendered, but to accept gratefully whatever subsistence allowance is given them by the administrative body of the community. I signed such an agreement in 1942 and since then the idea of resigning my job has never crossed my mind. Nor did I intend to revise the agreement under any circumstances in the future.

HAIFA THEATRE To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post Sir, — I would like to point out an error in the caption under the photograph taken from the Haifa English Theatre's production of "Pygmalion" (April 10). The actor pictured is in fact Mr. Robin Fowler who plays Professor Higgins in the play, and not Mr. Harvey Brown as stated.

SILKEN BENSKIN, Director Haifa English Theatre Haifa, April 10.

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post Sir, — As your newspaper has published so many articles recently on high-rise building in Jerusalem, I thought your readers would be interested in a letter I received some time ago, referring especially to French Hill.

The writer is a distinguished British architect and Town Planner, whom you know but whose name cannot be published as he is a British civil servant and is, therefore, enjoined from taking part in any public discussion of this matter. He writes:

"It seems to me that whatever may be the virtues and the necessity of the buildings at French Hill (on which I do not presume to make any pronouncement), the development as a whole has generated such a volume of criticism from lovers of Jerusalem that it must be regarded as having serious faults."

"Admittedly nearly every large, bold housing development in the world which breaks new ground and abruptly changes the existing scene comes in for criticism of this nature. There seems to be in mankind a strong affection for scenes as they are, which remains latent until there is a change and then expresses itself, often with violence. Sometimes this love of the status quo is proved perverse because, with the passage of time, when people get used to the new development they come to prize it."

"I think that this will possibly happen even with French Hill, but it will be a long time. The design undoubtedly has merits, in my opinion, in its very boldness and cleanliness of its lines and its confident self-assertion. I am afraid, however, that for many years it will continue to be objected to, standing like a strange new rampart on the horizon, unlike anything from the centuries gone by."

Whether the development would have escaped this sort of criticism if the top three storeys had been omitted I do not know, but I am inclined to doubt it. The hill is so prominent and contemporary critics are so hard to please. But I do think it quite possible that it, in 30 years' time, more objective and dispassionate critics come to praise French Hill, they will consider it better as it is than it would have been if truncated."

TEDDY KOLLEK Mayor Jerusalem, April 11.

BERRYLYNE COLUMN

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post Sir, — Your correspondence, Mrs. Esther Hecht and Mr. Ernst Stock have completely missed the point (April 10). Alex Berrylyne's weekly column is demonstrably titled: "With prejudice." As such, he has a clear (and enviable) mandate to attack his own pet aversions with no necessity to be "fair" or to present the other side of any particular coin. One may sympathize or be infuriated with his choice of targets, but that is irrelevant; what is important is that Berrylyne reveals a devastating iconoclastic and brilliantly caustic wit which, for this reader at least, automatically sets Tuesdays off to a good start. More power to his elbow and more barbs to his pen!

ASHEE WEILL Jerusalem, April 10.

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post Sir, — The attacks on some columns of Alex Berrylyne in your issue of April 10 inspire me to make known to you my immense pleasure in Mr. Berrylyne's columns. Without having to agree with all his opinions his commentary is surely among the most erudite, bright and sophisticated available to Israeli newspaper readers.

BURTON M. HALPERN Tel Aviv April 10.

ABSURD LEGISLATION

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post Sir, — In his article, "Immigrant must pay duty on wrecked tax-free car" (March 23), Mr. David Kravine has rendered a service to the public by exposing a law deal given to a Russian immigrant, the victim of a car accident, by both the insurance company and the customs.

In the case of a total loss, the insurance company is entitled, by law, to take ownership of the wreckage. This sounds plausible except that the customs considers this transaction a sale. So, the immigrant who is in this case the "seller" has to pay the duty.

It is understandable that the insurance company should want to transfer to itself the ownership of the wreck for "cannibalization" or the salvaging of some parts. But to call this a "sale" and to impose a tax on the victim of the accident defies common sense. It is plausible for an immigrant to pay duties if he voluntarily decides to sell his tax-exempt car before the end of four years. However, to consider the taking over of the wreckage by the insurance company as a bona fide sale by the immigrant is a legal fiction which borders on the absurd. As a result of his unfortunate accident, he will now have to pay a tax on his "tax-exempt" car which will reduce his insurance money and make it impossible for him to replace the car with an equivalent. It is doubtful that this was the intent of the legislators and I believe that a re-interpretation of the law is in order.
